"Go Figure" Contest Error. Here's the Correction...

Joe Wollick regrets to inform us that there was an error in Issue 121's Contest Puzzle rules. Here is the correction:

Here's a neat puzzle for all you number crunchers out there. Simply determine which numbers are represented by the letters shown in the puzzle below:

$$\begin{array}{r} \text{CUBE} \\ \times \text{ME} \\ \hline \text{GAMMON} \end{array}$$

Note that each letter represents one particular single digit, positive number throughout the equation (e.g. If M = 4, it equals 4 throughout, and no other letter can equal 4).

The winner will be determined among those players who solve the problem. Ties will be broken by those who find BOTH possible solutions. Further ties will be broken by random draw.

Send your results by 1 October 1999 to CHICAGO POINT.
